

THURSDAY, MARCH 9TH

WHAT WE TALK ABOUT WHEN WE TALK ABOUT INTERACTION

WORKSHOP WITH LINDSAY CLANDFIELD

Learner interaction. Interactive activities and games. Interactive software and interactive whiteboards. The word ‘interact’ and its various forms has been very popular in language education and especially in education technology. But as we are more and more surrounded by “interactive software”, does this still have the capability to motivate as much as when it was new? This talk looks what we mean now by interaction, the kinds of interaction we are currently engaging in online and the implications for the classroom. For the practically-minded, this talk will include several fun activities I have done with learners on Whatsapp, Facebook and online forums.

Space is limited!

RSVP ASAP

416-850-0833

info@englishcentral.net

Tickets are $10.

(Ticket bearers also receive $10 off anything purchased the day of the event.)

60 St. Clair Ave East

5-6pm

Lindsay Clandfield is a teacher, teacher trainer and international author. He is the main author of Macmillan’s Global and was part of the author team for Skillful. He is also co-editor of the Delta Teacher Development Series. Lindsay has won prestigious recognition for his writing, most notably for Global and Dealing with Difficulties, both of which earned him a visit to Buckingham Palace to receive the ESU English Language Award.

