

Graded Readers Catalog

Good things happen to students who read a great deal in the new language. Research studies show they become better and more confident readers, they write better, their listening and speaking abilities improve, and their vocabularies get richer. In addition, they develop positive attitudes toward and increased motivation to study the new language.

- from Extensive Reading Activities for Teaching Language, ed. Bamford & Day

English Central is proud to present our catalog of readers for adult and young adult English language learners. The catalog features a great selection of graded readers that cater to all levels and interests: classics, crime and thriller, history, non-fiction, original fiction, STEM and much more! Whether you are a teacher looking for a fun new edition of Dracula to use in your class or a reluctant reader with a passion for data mining, you are bound to find something that will appeal to your interests.

You will find several series of readers in this catalog:

Helbling Readers	Macmillan Readers	Oracle Readers
Very attractively illustrated with fact files, pre and post reading activities, these readers have a magazine-like feel that will appeal especially to older teens and young adults. Beginner to Intermediate.	The readers for purists as they are more similar to actual novels in that the text is not disrupted much by illustrations or exercises. Exercises and a glossary follow at the end of the book. Beginner to Upper Intermediate level.	Our most economical series that makes reading affordable for everyone! Mostly original stories that are moderately illustrated, suitable for Beginner to Intermediate learners.

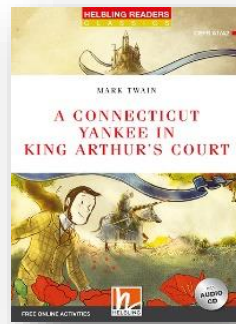

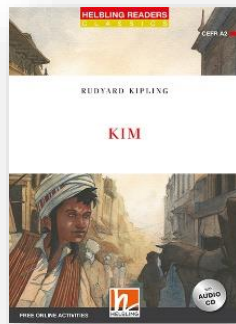

World History Readers	Future Jobs Readers	Hopes and Dreams
The title of this series says it all – these are all on historical events from all corners of the world, ancient and more modern history. Suitable for Pre-intermediate to Upper Intermediate learners.	This unique series explores jobs of the future, mostly in STEM, making for very useful reading for teens and young adults. Pre-intermediate to Intermediate.	These readers are all directed towards beginning readers and are about different immigrant groups in the US. Also written unconventionally, with sentences broken into lines to reflect spoken thought groups.

Our readers are grouped by series and difficulty level, with English varietal and key features noted, all to make it easier for you to find exactly what you are looking for. Each reader is also accompanied by a link to our website where you will find a story synopsis, price and product details.

The books that help you most are the ones which make you think the most. The hardest way of learning is easy reading; but a great book that comes from a great thinker is a ship of thought, deep freighted with truth and beauty.

- Pablo Neruda

Education begins the gentleman, but reading, good company, and reflection must finish him.

- John Locke

Travel stories teach geography, insect stories lead the child into natural science; and so on. The teacher, in short, can use reading to introduce her pupils to the most varied subjects; and the moment they have been thus started, they can go on to any limit guided by the single passion of reading..

Hopes and Dreams series

The hopes and dreams of the characters in these stories are a reflection of the hopes and dreams of virtually every group of people who have ventured from their homes to a new place for a new life in America. Each story and its characters reflect a part of the history of the United States. Yet at the same time each story is different, as the characters face challenges, defeats and victories in the fields and factories of Southern California, the gold fields of the West, the construction of the railroad in Utah, Chinatown in San Francisco, the Deep South and Southside Chicago, and New York's Little Italy.

Key features:

- Vocabulary builders
- Structured reading practice for developing reading skills
- A powerful introduction to slices of American history and a celebration of America's diversity
- Engaging stories whose fascinating characters face prejudice, danger, hardships, and setbacks and survive with a little bit of luck and a generous amount of love.
